Sheriff Jerry L. Demings is a native of Orlando, he was elected the first African-American Sheriff and Constitutional Officer in the history of Orange County, Florida and was sworn in on January 6, 2009. He was elected on the same historic ballot that elected Barack Obama as the first African-American President of the United States of America. In his brief tenure, he has already realigned the agency and deployed additional uniform patrols to high crime areas as he manages a $185 million dollar budget and approximately 2,400 employees.

He also served as Orlando Police Chief. Mayor Glenda Hood appointed him as the first African-American Chief of Police in the history of Orlando on December 30, 1998. He is married to Orlando Police Chief Valdez B. Demings who was appointed by Mayor Buddy Dyer in December 2007 as the first female Police Chief in the history of Orlando.
